

Telework Providers - CORA

(Issued June 2009)
(Reviewed June 2014)

Purpose:

To share information about use of telework and a specific provider, CORA to DVR staff.

Rationale:

Telework is a growing field and a viable employment choice for many individuals. VR Counselors must determine on a case-by-case basis if telework is the best career fit for individual consumers. VR Counselors need to insure employment goals meet VR Policy standards and are consistent with the individual's skills, abilities, capabilities, interests, preferences, resources, strengths and concerns. A review of criteria needed for a successful closure may be of assistance.

DVR does not endorse any specific telework employer. The following links provide telework information and viable telework businesses. Consumers and VR Staff must fully investigate qualifications, fees and employment arrangements through any telework opportunity. This will insure the individual referred is qualified for the position and will achieve employment that is aligned with VR Policy requirements.

Resources:

Provides guidance, legislation and telework employment opportunities

<http://www.telework.gov>

Type the word "telework" and resource on telework will be provided

<http://www.disability.gov>

Non-profit dedicating to supporting telework, link includes viable telework businesses

<http://www.telcoa.org>

If you have any questions, please consult with your Supervisor.

DVR will no longer support CORA, LLC as a viable employment opportunity for consumers. DVR has determined that CORA, LLC does not meet successful employment standards. This notice includes authorized purchase orders to Capital Credit, Inc., the financial firm purchasing DVR's purchase orders.