Governor Doyle Announces Additional Assistance for Dislocated Workers of Appleton Coated, Combined Locks

Employment, training services for 136 workers displaced due to foreign competition

MADISON – Governor Jim Doyle today announced that 136 workers displaced at Appleton Coated, LLC, in Combined Locks, are eligible to apply for additional re-employment and training services under the federal Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program.

“This additional assistance will help these workers increase their job skills and find new employment,” Governor Doyle said. “These employment and training services will help them re-enter the workforce and support themselves and their families.”

At Appleton Coated, a subsidiary of Arjowiggins SAS, the workers produced coated free-sheet paper, as well as carbonless and thermal paper base stock. Federal officials attributed the layoffs to foreign competition. Appleton Coated sales declined as foreign imports increased.

The TAA certification applies to workers displaced as of May 28, 2008, through December 29, 2011. Affected workers will be notified of meetings to discuss program benefits.

The Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development (DWD) will administer the federally funded services, which are available through local Job Centers. They include retraining and re-employment services tailored to meet the needs of individual workers. These workers can now apply for the following TAA services:

- Training for employment in another job or career,
- Income support, known as trade readjustment allowances,
- Job search allowance to cover expenses seeking employment outside normal commuting areas, and
- Relocation allowances for approved relocation expenses in moving to a new area of employment.

“Working with our partners, we provide these services to displaced workers to help them get the training they need and connect with employers in search of workers with the right skills,” DWD Secretary Roberta Gassman said.

Last June, Governor Doyle announced that the U.S. Department of Labor expanded the amount of TAA funds available nationwide to $575 million from $220 million as part of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009. The additional funding will help states serve an increasing number of trade-affected workers. More information on the TAA program is available at <http://www.doleta.gov>.
